

The Masters of Health Administration focuses on knowledge and competencies needed for careers involving the management of hospitals and other health services organizations.

Course work includes: healthcare economics, management of healthcare organizations, operations assessment and improvement, financial analysis and management, and strategy formulation and implementation. This degree provides further instruction in management, accounting, and finance. Courses blend your prior or current professional experience with the learning content, allowing for immediate application in the work setting. Experienced faculty work one-on-one with you to guarantee your success in this field. This major will prepare you for: The MHA program will prepare you for a career leading to executive leadership positions in the health care industry. Designed to enhance management, interpersonal and organizational skills and abilities, the program is also intended to instill you with desire and skills that focus on self-development and critical thinking. The Masters Degree in Healthcare Administration will prepare individuals to develop, plan, and manage health care operations and services within health care facilities and throughout health care systems. It includes instruction in planning, public relations, human resources management, and applications to specific types of health care services. Completing the program will enable you to: attain a systematic body of knowledge related to the management of health care services, apply acquired knowledge and skills to the effective management of health services, and identify and internalize appropriate standards of professional and ethical conduct.

Schools That Offer Associate in Accounting

A nonprofit, regionally accredited higher education institution, Pacific Oaks offers bachelor's completion and master's programs in a variety of fields, including Human Development, Marriage and Family Therapy (MFT), Education, Early Childhood Education (ECE), Teacher Credentialing, and Organizational Leadership.