

Certificate/Diploma in Security and Investigation Specialist

A certificate is the lowest level of all degree types, and is most commonly achieved as a means of career preparation. Certificates are often granted for very concentrated areas of study.

Security specialists perform a variety of security-related tasks, which includes providing technical support for camera systems, electronic access systems, equipment maintenance, IT projects and other systems. They also document and report data related to security systems and projects. These specialists may work for public or private agencies or companies, providing safety and security based on the needs of the organization. Travel might be involved, and extensive background checks might be cumbersome.
