

The world is becoming more globalized and the need for internationally gifted managers is vastly increasing. Corporations are expanding their operations to nations across the globe and they require managers competent in global management.

This degree provides students with the opportunity to learn how to efficiently manage multinational and multicultural corporations. Students can expect in depth research into how to take management practices and apply them globally to different cultures. Furthermore, they can learn how to mesh company policies with global cultures. Anyone interested in international management will benefit from the skills they will gain from this degree. This degree is highly applicable and an MBA/GM can take you from the classroom to anywhere in the world! The best part, it's only a few classes away. This major will prepare you for: If you desire to work as a manager at international corporations or even overseas then look no further. A Master of Business Administration/Global Management (MBA/GM) will help you become more competitive and advance your career. Whether you are already a manager or not you can use this degree to help refine your resume and prepare yourself to work for dynamic companies across the world. An MBA/GM can provide you with the job and success you have always dreamed of.